

Prince George & Master Frederick: Royal Friends and Secret Brothers

A talk by Rosalind Freeborn

Saturday 14th February 2026 at 11am
(coffee served from 10:30am)

St Anne's Parish Hall, Kew Green

Rosalind Freeborn was inspired to write her debut novel Prince George & Master Frederick after researching her grandmother's claim that there was a family connection with King George III.

Discover the remarkable story of Frederick Blomberg, believed by Rosalind to be the secret son of King George III, who was adopted by King George and Queen Charlotte. Young Frederick was brought up within the royal household at Richmond and Kew where he developed a friendship with Prince George, the future regent and King George IV.

Rosalind began her career as a book publicist and went on to promote the London Philharmonic Orchestra, charities such as Great Ormond Street Hospital and several high-profile arts events. She is also an artist specialising in paper collage.

Tickets: £20 Members & £25 Non-Members

available from our website www.friendsofstanneskew.org.uk

Registered Charity No. 1085389